

October 31, 2019

Human Rights and Civil Liberties: Strengthening check and balances mechanism in pre-trial stage as a measure to prevent human rights abuse. Case Study - Indonesia

Time: 12:00pm - 1:00pm

Location: Silverman 245A, Bernard Segal Moot Court Room

Dear Penn Law students, the future leaders of social change,

On Wednesday, October 31, 2019, within the Human Rights and Development Series 2019-2020, Ichsán Zikry, LL.M., 2019-2020, will update you on recurring problems in Indonesia's criminal justice system, such as corruption, torture, and extortion.

Ichsán Zikry is a public defender in Indonesia who focuses on providing legal aid for indigent people in criminal matters and advocating for criminal justice reform, through both judicial and non-judicial activities. He was also the lead counsel in one of the successful strategic litigations pertinent to criminal justice reform in Indonesia

The Speaker will make an overview of the cases of human rights violations and ongoing institutional reform in Indonesia.

Contact Info:

Aliaksandra Tyhrytskaya, Human Rights Scholar
avat@pennlaw.upenn.edu

Ichsán Zikry, LL.M.

ichsan@pennlaw.upenn.edu